Bank Action Proceeds

Nose Thumb For Ottawa

By Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett thumbed his nose Tuesday at an Ottawa proposal to curb B.C. government investment in the shares of chartered banks.

Federal Move

'Defence Against Invasion'

He served notice the government intends to proceed with new bank legislation at this session by introducing the bill to amend the Revenue Act for second reading in the House.

The debate was immediately adjourned, after the unexpected move which came at the end of the afternoon sitting, and Premier Bennett later told reporters he made his point.

BENNETT AMAZED

Premier Bennett said outside the House he was amazed to learn the federal government intends to introduce legislation barring provinces from investing in chartered banks.

He said he had received personal assurances from Finance Minister Walter Gordon, who made the Ottawa announcement, that "he was not opposed to our bill."

Earlier, Premier Bennett told reporters before entering the legislature at 2 p.m. he had no statement, but added: "B.C. does not back out. We go ahead."

NOT IN COLLISION

The premier said he could not agree with a suggestion by a reporter that B.C. and Ottawa were now on a collision course over the bank.

"We may disagree with the federal government," said Mr. Bennett. "But at no time do we try to dictate to the federal parliament."

Every Canadian has the right to buy shares on the market, the premier said.

While in Ottawa for the Senate banking committee hearing last year, Mr. Bennett said, he was assured that there would be no opposition to buying shares in existing chartered banks.

WHY CHANGE NOW?

Why should Ottawa change now? He asked.

On budget day, Feb. 5, Premier Bennett said the province would buy shares in every chartered bank in Canada.

Introducing the amendment to the Revenue Act for second reading in the legislature Tuesday, Premier Bennett said:

"In the rapidly-changing financial conditions of the world today, present restrictions do not give the province enough diversification of provincial holdings."

"It is desirable to diversify provincial holdings in sound investments in addition to federal and provincial government holdings which are limited in yield and maturity."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the federal proposal would affect more than just B.C.

It is the first time in the constitutional history of Canada, he said, that the national government has proposed to circumscribe the power of the provinces to invest funds.

Canadian Nabbed in Weird U.S. Plot

NEW YORK (CP) — A white woman from Canada and three American Negroes, described by police as pro-Castro and pro-Chinese fanatics, were arrested here Tuesday in a weird plot to blow up the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the historical U.S. monuments was symbolic.

"We know they have made contact in other cities," the commissioner added. "We

Albania in There Trying for Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Communist China's ally Albania tried to force a showdown Tuesday between the Soviet Union and the United States over Russia's General Assembly voting rights. The Assembly adjourned, putting off an immediate confrontation.

Albanian Ambassador Halim Budo threw the Star into a turmoil with an unexpected demand for an immediate vote.

Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey fought back the Albanian move by pushing through an adjournment until Thursday. Budo then demanded that the adjournment itself be put to a vote. But Quaison-Sackey adjourned the body without polling the members.

Writer Named

general gave his views on the Stonehill letter.

Mr. Bonner on those occasions expressed a "commendable" philosophy that it was better to remain silent than run the risk of prejudicing a fair trial for the culprit.

It was too bad, said Mr. McKay, the attorney-general didn't see fit to follow his stated philosophy.

But instead of remaining silent, the speaker said, the premier handled the letter a phony and Mr. Bowser said a Vancouver man had admitted to RCMP that he was the author.

"Silence is a virtue in these matters but apparently it depends on whose ox is being gored," said Mr. McKay.

The attorney-general didn't remain silent because at that time it was the premier's reputation that was involved, they admitted fast then, and silence was not considered to be such a great virtue."

This also was not a case of Mr. Bonner's words either laying a charge or shutting up, said Mr. McKay.

"If no charges are laid, Mr. Attorney-General, you cannot remain silent," he said.

You then have to answer in this legislature a good many questions. I have a few of them."

• How was a premier's stationery obtained? Was it with the premier's approval? Does anyone else have a supply?

• Is anyone other than the premier permitted to use his stationery or affix his signature?

• Are there people about with a limited authority to use such stationery and if so, for what purpose? Was this a case of exceeding authority?

• Are there more letters on the premier's stationery sitting in files throughout the country bearing the phony W. A. C. Bennett signature?

• Have influence peddlars been at work using the premier's stationery and signing and stamping his name?

• How much does a phony letter from the premier's office cost on the influence peddling market these days?

• Mr. McKay said the decision to shunt the letter off to the Dorion inquiry was a smoke screen.

The Dear Hal letter was sent last May to an aide of Prime Minister Pearson in an unsuccessful attempt to help millionaire promoter Harry Stonehill get landed-immigrant status in Canada.

Bank Protection

Mr. Gordon will be made effective from Feb. 16.

It also will limit ownership of a bank's outstanding shares by any individual or corporation to 10 per cent.

There will be two exceptions to this limit on the number of shares that may be registered directly or indirectly for the benefit of any one recipient of Canada as well as to non-resident stockholders.

Mr. Gordon said there will be special provision for temporary exemptions in the case of a newly-formed bank and an exemption for any existing holdings that may be in excess of this 10 per cent.

RESENTS MOVE

In the Commons, both Colin Cameron (NDP — Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) and Gilles Gagnon (Credidiste — Lapeinte) said the purpose of the federal government's move is to stop the B.C. government.

I certainly resent very much the idea that this government should allocate to itself power hundreds.

India Still Using English

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Two cabinet ministers withdrew their resignations Tuesday after they and Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri assured them that English would continue to be used as an official language in India.

Both ministers came from Madras, where riots protesting establishment of Hindi as the official language have brought death to scores and injury to hundreds.

Your Good Health

Drugs and Proper Diet Only Way to Fight Gout

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner. Please excuse my gout. I am 35 and I have pain in my ankle. All I know is most old people get the disease but I hardly believe at my age I can have contracted it. My doctor gives my pills which I am afraid to take. I know my English is terrible, but I am a foreigner, and the language is still hard for me, but I can read your column.—MRS. H. C.

Dear Doctor: The doctor tells my husband he has too much uric acid. He has had pain in his ankles. What should he do? —MRS. M. E. M.

Don't apologize, Mrs. H. C. You make yourself clear, which is more than I could do in your language.

Gout can develop at any age, although not frequently, when you are very young. But at 35? Yes, it happens quite often.

The cause is that the body doesn't handle uric acid well. The amount gradually builds up. In time, little deposits of uric acid (or resultant chemicals) are formed. They have a tendency to combine in the joints. And they can be painful. When they form elsewhere in soft tissue, they can exist without causing any particular trouble. Coincidentally, both letters today mention painful ankles. The most usual places for such deposits from gout are in the joints of the big toes. But they can form in any joints in the body.

For some hundreds of years a drug called colchicine was the only known treatment for gout, other than trying to avoid foods which build up uric acid. (Oryx meats—such as liver, heart, sweetbreads, kidneys; red meats in general; vegetable of the pea or bean type; anchovies, sardines and a few others—are among the principal offenders.)

But more recently a drug called probenecid has been prescribed. Daily use of it tends to prevent attacks—because, for whatever reasons, gout is an ailment which hits in attacks. It causes very severe pain for a time. Then the pain goes away, only to return again later. Probenecid to prevent such attacks has been a God-send to many sufferers.

BETWEEN ATTACKS

Between attacks, gout patients can be perfectly comfortable. But that's when they ought to be guarding against future attacks.

Space Bird Squawks When Hit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Safire I super-rocket sent a gigantic "space bird" named Pegasus soaring into orbit Tuesday to learn how manned spaceships might be harmed by the sandblast effect of meteoroids and how to protect them from the hazard.

Spreading its wings to a span greater than a four-engine airliner, Pegasus provides a huge target for the tiny, almost invisible particles it seeks to catch. It is the third-largest satellite ever launched and the U.S. space agency said it would be visible at night in areas over which it swooped.

THIN SKIN
Each time one of the bits of space debris punctures the craft's thin metal skin, the "bird" emits an electronic "squawk" which is stored in a memory box and relayed to the ground on command.

While Pegasus is investigating a danger which faces moon-bound astronauts, another launching is scheduled here today to learn more about their goal. Ranger VIII is to ride an Atlas-Agena Rocket on a 65-hour, quarter-million-mile journey to continue lunar photographic exploration started last July by Ranger VII.

'Wine Party Preceded Man's Death'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A jail inmate told a murder trial Tuesday that he had himself placed in the cell of a man charged with murder to get his version of the story.

James Barrioff, serving five years for false pretences, was testifying at the trial of Duncan Beaudry, charged with the non-capital murder of female impersonator Larry "Elizabeth" Taylor.

He asked police to move him into Beaudry's cell where Beaudry appeared to want to talk about the death.

He testified Beaudry told him about an all-day wine party at his apartment the day of the killing.

$10 FOR WINE

Beaudry told him about taking $10 out of Taylor's handbag and giving it to a party guest to obtain more wine.

Barrioff testified Beaudry told him about going out onto a verandah later to hide a bottle of wine, and being followed by Taylor.

They argued about the money, and Beaudry "back-handed" Taylor.

"He told me that he did recall sitting on Taylor and holding him by the throat, and Taylor went lax," Barrioff said.

The trial continues.

Renegades Still Tories

OTTAWA (UPI) — All 10 members of the renegade Quebec wing of the Conservative party remained within Tory ranks Tuesday as the Commons resumed following the eight-week winter recess.

"But it's just temporary," said Quebec leader Leon Balleter later. "I haven't changed my mind about the leadership."

Balleter announced in a Monday speech he would not sit as an independent but stay in the party and continue his fight to oust John Diefenbaker as leader.

He feels he can continue the fight better from within party ranks.

Stonehill Witness To Be Heard

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Denis, former federal minister aide, is being recalled to the Dorian inquiry's witness box, this time to testify about his connection with the Harry Stonehill immigration case.

Chief Justice Frederic Dorian made this ruling Tuesday so, he said, Denis' credibility in his testimony concerning the Lucien Rivard affair can be tested.

The judge reserved his decision on whether other witnesses should be called in the Stonehill case. They would include Hal Dorman, Prime Minister Pearson's speech-writer, Al Williamson, a Vancouver public relations man, Senator Louis P. Gelinas, treasurer of the Liberal party in Quebec, and Stonehill himself.

Ouster Spurred by Police Query

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons yesterday that a "preliminary report" about a police investigation of Yvon Dupuis prompted him to call on the minister with the race-track portfolio to resign from the cabinet Jan. 20.

Mr. Pearson said he referred the report to Attorney-General Claude Wagner of Quebec "in the course of the past week."

He gave no hint of the contents of the report and opposition MPs immediately demanded a parliamentary inquiry into all scandalous charges against the government.

Mr. Dupuis charged that Rene Hebert, whom he called a long-time fund raiser for the Quebec provincial Liberal party, signed an agreement in 1962 to acquire for nothing 10 per cent of the race-track company for himself required an investigation. To this he agreed.

The prime minister said "certain evidence" about allegations against Mr. Dupuis was submitted to him in December.

"They (the allegations) were not related to his membership of this House or of the government," Mr. Pearson added.

"I saw the honorable member (Mr. Dupuis) and advised him

J. BRADLEY

Mr. Dupuis denied published reports that he accepted a $10,000 "gift" in 1961 from a group in his riding of St. Jean-Bertrand-Naperville that was seeking a provincial franchise for a race-track with pari-mutuel betting.

He said he made representations for the race-track promoters in 1961-62 because it would bring a new industry to his constituency and reduce unemployment. This brought derisive cheers from opposition members.

Chief Justice Frederic Dorian made this ruling Tuesday so, he said, Denis' credibility in his testimony concerning the Harry Stonehill immigration case.

Their Turn Now

MUCH TO THE discomfiture of the Liberal government in Ottawa, the Conservative Party caucus has resolved its major internal problem by reconfirming Mr. Diefenbaker's position as leader. Even Quebec Tory Leon Bajer has accepted the decision with good grace and has stated that he will remain in the party organization.

Having thus declared itself to the country as a united and determined political force, the Conservative Party must now act as one by insisting that its elected representatives behave as responsible individuals both within and without the House of Commons.

Having regard to the issues at stake and their duty to Canada as a whole, the Conservative Party has a major role to play in the present parliamentary session. By presenting a unified front as the major opposition party the Tories now have the opportunity to enforce their demand for a better national government.

For some weeks now the Liberal government and its party hacks have been attempting to hide their mismanagement and misdeeds from the people of Canada by exaggerating and magnifying the domestic troubles besetting the Conservative Party.

That these troubles have now been overcome for the time being may at once be posted as a major victory for the Tories and a disastrous defeat for the Liberals.

Today the Liberals may find it more difficult to persuade the nation's political pundits and Ottawa observers that John Diefenbaker's leadership problems make more interesting news than some of the shady deals going on in the nation's capital.

The Conservatives seem to have solved their problems for the moment. The question now is: Can the Liberals solve theirs?

Keys to Prosperity

IN NET TERMS, Canada actually has not been experiencing a so-called brain drain. On the contrary, according to the review of the Economic Council of Canada, the immigration of professional and technical manpower has been exceeding the outflow by some 3,100 persons a year even though in relation to the United States alone the balance is adverse, Canada losing four for every one gained.

And according to Dr. John B. Macdonald, president of the University of British Columbia, in this province at least the departure of the highly educated for supposedly greener fields is not nearly as voluminous as sometimes imagined. More than 91 per cent of UBC graduates remain in Canada, Dr. Macdonald recently reported, and nearly three-quarters of them in British Columbia.

But despite these encouraging figures, the international competition for the skilled and the learned is growing increasingly intense, and there is no room for complacency. Even were none of the graduates of Canadian universities lured abroad by money or greater opportunity for advancement in knowledge, moreover, the country is far from producing enough men and women at the highest level of education to meet its own teaching, medical and other needs.

Mr. H. R. MacMillan's gift of $8,200,000 to UBC will go far to placing the university on an excellent footing to alleviate this lack, and to enabling British Columbia to retain still more of its brightest and best-trained people, the living keys to a prosperous future. Mr. MacMillan made his money in the province, he says, and believes he should put it back into the province. He has put it where it will do inestimable good.

Worst Uninspected

A BOUT A THIRD of the cars submitted to British Columbia's mobile motor-vehicle inspection unit have passed the tests at first examination, and another third have been approved on subsequent checks after defects have been remedied. Presumably, too, many of the remaining third have been or are being put right.

The fact remains, however, that the inspection cannot be touching some of the most dangerously defective vehicles on the roads, whose owners' last thoughts would be to expose their faults to attention.

Compulsory testing thus appears more and more desirable. The results are a plain indication of the need to expand the program so that this can come about.

Tearing Away Traditions

WE in this far away, perhaps forgotten part of Canada, have heard that the university Liberal groups in the East have decided, no doubt with some encouragement from Lester Pearson, that we are to have no Queen. The glorious flag has gone and now we are to remove the Queen. Therefore, we are to become a republic—no longer be the word "royal" connected with anything Canadian. No royal regiments, no air force, no royal banners, no royal ceremonial in our parliament, no royal glamour or mystique anywhere, not even our Princess Pat's because a princess is royal too.

So, as a republic we shall elect a president in the usual red-leaving us as naked as the tree when the last red leaf has fallen.

Your correspondent Mr. Wixson is I am sure a most reasonable person, spurred on to write by excellent motives, but I fear that much of what he says is misleading.

I would question the two points which he makes in the following ways:

1. Was his experience in the National Health Service in 1955 in the United Kingdom, so very paid off. Now we will join the OAS and become another satellite orbiting around the U.S.A.

British Police Speak Up

A Need to Regain Confidence

BY PATRICK O'DONOVAN from London

WITHIN a segment of Britain's intellectualism, it has become fashionable to distrust and dislike the police. To the extremists they are Brownshirts in a blue coat; to the moderates they are merely oats.

This aberration is only the tip of the iceberg. Almost since Sir Robert Peel founded his top-hatted constabulary in 1829, the British police have been revered as steady, reliable, respectful to their superiors, friendly, with the right-time-Mister extensions of the national conscience. They were the solid men in big boots who found caves for wealthy drunks, broke up fights with "What's all this?" and brought back normally to the scene of some ghastly mishap with a "Move along there."

Fundamentally, this is probably still true with a few, temporary modifications. But to the civil rights fighters, the bomb-banners, the anti-neocolonialists, the militant liberals and others, the police have become anathema.

It is true that in persistent demonstrations they appear to be human, and sometimes lose their tempers. They have been known to knock an angry, yelling head with their truncheons, and to carry sit-down demonstrators with less delicacy than they would give to a bowl of ripe fruit. They are suspected of not always observing the strict Judge's Rules—that cover the treatment of arrested persons.

Then, too, there has been a great symbolic scandal in a police station in Soho, which is London's most cosmopolitan, shady and picturesque pleasure centre, where strange racketts flourish among the foreign restaurants, the delicatessens and the little fly-by-night clubs. A senior police officer was believed to have planted evidence, and to have rough-handled suspects and witnesses. A woman has written a quick and indignant book about it, and the officer has had a mental breakdown, and cannot be tried.

The decision on whether the United States is to increase its support for the Leopoldville government is now reportedly being made in Washington. Capitol Hill will be closely watching the resumed attempt by the Organization of African Unity (OAU) to end the fighting.

If this fails Prime Minister Moise Tshombe's troops, led by white mercenaries, will be ready in four weeks' time for a large-scale operation to close the Uganda border to all arms supplies not coming across for the rebels.

Arms shipments through South Sudan have slowed to a trickle recently as the Arab Sudanese government realized that many of the arms being sent from Algeria and Egypt were falling into the hands of the Southern Sudanese rebels.

But even with the arms imports completely stopped, the rebels have enough fire-power to continue the rebellion. One military observer here recently said the rebels have more arms and ammunition than the government troops.

If the OAU makes no headway and the government war effort hits a rough spot, the United States will undoubtedly step up its aid in one form or another. The U.S. "investment"

With these go a certain public unwillingness to co-operate with the police. It springs from the sacred English obligation to mind your own business, the habit of avoiding trouble and anything for the quiet life, the feeling that anything to do with police courts and stations is not quite respectable ("I won't have my wife in one of those places.")

So violent things can happen. Children are maltreated, youths beaten up or banks robbed, and the onlookers tend often to twitch aside their skirts as if to avoid contamination. Of course, interference can be extremely dangerous.

At the end of last year there was an eccentric little crime-wave in a district of London called Islington. There was a lot of wanton shooting, and at the end of it a senior police official, in a rare press conference, invited the public to "have a go" and help if the situation was not too obviously dangerous.

There seems to have been some improvement since this springing—mutation. Garage cars have been rammed, and an alleged gunman cornered in a basement well of a Kensington hotel, was showered with empty milk bottles by enthusiastic citizens. But the old, easy relationship between police and people is at least in abeyance.

Recently, the Police Federation, which represents 78,000 policemen in England and Wales, has been speaking up. Clearly something is wrong. London is short of 10,000 police, and last year there was a national intake of 6,000 recruits, but after the wastage caused by retirement and by young police quitting in their first two years, the net gain to the country was 786. And the London figures actually fell.

Slowly, welling up, there is an enormous impatience over the fact that, patiently, crime does pay in Britain. The monotonous robberies of banks and post offices, the thefts of jewels and works of art, the causal hold-ups of little shops, the protection racketts that attend the betting shops and shady drinking clubs, these are beginning to look without going into statistics, increasingly intolerable.

They want the identifying numbers taken off their shoulder straps—the civil rights will protest that. They want to be treated in a less military fashion, and their work to be rationalized and their holidays more predictable. Their suggestions, if followed, would cost £10 million a year. But then, they say, crime and traffic congestion now cost £100 million a year.

Slowly, welling up, there is an enormous impatience over the fact that, patiently, crime does pay in Britain. The monotonous robberies of banks and post offices, the thefts of jewels and works of art, the causal hold-ups of little shops, the protection racketts that attend the betting shops and shady drinking clubs, these are beginning to look without going into statistics, increasingly intolerable.

'War Could Embrace World'

Kosygin Demands 'Interference' End

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin called for an end to military interference Tuesday in the internal affairs of the Indochina states and the withdrawal of all U.S. troops and equipment from South Viet Nam.

The demand followed Soviet warnings that new U.S. air raids on Communist North Viet Nam could trigger world war.

FOR NORTH AMERICA

The world-war warning came in a Radio Moscow broadcast beamed especially to North America.

Kosygin's withdrawal demand was a message addressed to the forthcoming Indochinese people's preparatory conference opening in Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

"The flames of war starting in one place could easily spread to neighboring countries, and in the first country, embrace the whole world," Radio Moscow said.

It said the situation is becoming increasingly dangerous and added that North Viet Nam, as a member of the Communist community, will not be left to stand alone.

"The responsibility for the dire consequences rests with America."

'DEMANDS WITHDRAWAL'

Kosygin's message was distributed by the official news agency Tass:

"The Soviet Union resolutely demands the withdrawal of U.S. troops and military equipment from South Viet Nam, the cessation of armed provocations against the democratic (Communist) republics of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia and the rejection of any military interference in the internal affairs of Indochina."

South Viet Nam Seats Another Government

SAIGON (AP)—A new government and a new legislative advisory body took office in South Viet Nam Tuesday with the blessing of Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh's high command.

A facade of civilian rule that had been rent by military purges was restored.

U.K. to Cut Surcharge

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Labor government plans to reduce the 15-per-cent surcharge slapped on most imports last October, official sources reported Tuesday.

They said the token cut is likely to be between 2½ and five per cent, and probably will be announced by next week.

The cabinet decision was an attempt to conciliate Britain's partners in the European Free Trade Association and the Commonwealth.

Unlawful Credit Earns Jail Term

Hard work was the curb prescribed Tuesday in city magistrate's court for a 23-year-old Colwood man convicted of false pretences and obtaining unlawful credit.

Kenneth Hodges, 23, of 291 Rosebank, was sentenced to eight months at Oakalla after pleading guilty to nine offences, all of which occurred in the week before Christmas.

The magistrate said that at Oakalla Hodges would have the chance to work in a forest camp.

FICTIONAL NAME

Using a fictitious name and a genuine Colwood address, Hodges opened credit accounts at the Hudson's Bay Company, 3717 Douglas; Eddy's Ltd., 1601 Douglas, and Bold Bell Men's Wear, 721 Yates.

He obtained clothing and shoes from these stores to the approximate value of $125.

From the Hudson's Bay Company he received $25 in cash by means of two bad cheques drawn on a Colwood bank.

GAVE HIMSELF UP

He gave himself up to police Feb. 6, saying he wanted to clear his conscience.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett told the court Tuesday that in December, 1962, Hodges was convicted in Colwood of assault causing bodily harm and placed on probation for two years.

"I don't think there's very much wrong with you that a little hard work won't cure," Magistrate William Oatley told Hodges, sentencing him to eight months concurrent on each of the charges.

Learned-driver Elizabeth James, 3533 Wasana, pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident and not having a licence.

While driving on Harriet near Burnside Jan. 20 she struck the door of a parked car whose driver was inside, then drove off.

She told police she was aware of the accident, but left because she had neither licence nor insurance.

She was fined $100 for the hit-and-run and $25 for lack of insurance.

In Saanich court, a charge against a man accused of unlawfully possessing explosives was dropped.

The crown said it was withdrawing the charge against Larry Preston, 3920 Quadra, on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Preston first appeared in court on the charge last Jan. 18, when he was remanded without plea on bail of $1,000.

Police said they seized a cache of dynamite Jan. 17 in a wooded area in the Lake Hill district.

Truck driver Frederick Doherty, 3925 Gladanford, was fined $400 for impaired driving and restricted to driving for business purposes only for one year.

Doherty, who pleaded guilty, was charged after he drove his truck off Admirals Road Feb. 7.

'Why Did This Have to Happen?'

A weeping youth repeatedly relived his father's shooting and once cried out, "Oh God! Oh God! Why did this have to happen?" Supreme Court murder-jury was told Tuesday.

Const. James White, recalled to the stand by 21-year-old Gary A. Moonie's counsel Hugh McGivern, repeated the statement he attributed to the accused.

The policeman agreed the statement had not been presented earlier during his testimony because young Moonie had not been given police warning as to his rights during questioning before he blurted it out.

Moonie is being tried for the statements made by young Moonie to police at the scene ended Tuesday morning with their admission.

Const. J. M. Frost quoted the counsel W. R. McIntyre and youth as saying: "I only wanted to hurt him."

Moonie had also said it had entered his mind to shoot his father before, but he was leaving the house to avoid contact with him, said the policeman.

The second day of the trial had been adjourned to 10 a.m. to facilitate defence presentation. It was granted.

RUSTPROOFING?

WE SPILL MORE THAN OTHERS USE.

We don't just gloss over the winter rust problem.
Our unique deep-dip rustproofing seeps into every nook and cranny to seal out the ravages of rust!

Some years ago we took a long, hard look at the winter rust problem. Normal rustproofing methods weren't adequate. Spraying and coating provide some protection, certainly, but not enough. They miss one crucial thing. They don't really get inside. They don't really seep into a car's body for truly effective protection.

That's why our engineers went to work on a solution. Why not dip our cars in rustproofing—right up to their rooflines? Time consuming, yes. But well worth it—for you.

But wait. We didn't stop there. One more step was necessary. For complete rustproofing, the metal surface must be properly prepared. To ensure proper bonding it must be absolutely clean and free of all impurities.

And that's where we start. The body of every '65 Rambler is submerged right to its roofline in six separate tanks. In each tank, the metal is cleansed, scoured and purified.

Then in a seventh tank, the car is completely dipped again in rustproofing primer paint, flooding every nook and cranny. A second primer is sprayed on for good measure and then baked. A thorough wet-sanding removes any blemishes. Fifteen pounds of rustproofing primer coats the steel.

And we're not through yet. Three coats of chip-resistant, salt-resistant, super enamel are sprayed on and baked. Corrosion-resistant wax and sealer compounds are sprayed inside girders, rocker panels, fenders and on underbody areas—those critical places where rust does its worst damage.

Because we take this much care, put this much effort into rustproofing, Rambler is the world's most completely rustproofed car. Every 1965 Rambler can beat the worst slush-and-salt winter conditions—mile after mile, month after month, year after year.

Exclusive Deep-Dip Rustproofing is just one of the many ways Rambler builds a longer-lasting, better-designed car for you.

Stick with Rambler and let the rust of the world go by.

Leafs Defeat Seattle On Sheer Doggedness

Victoria Starts After Third Place Again

By JIM TANG

It wasn't artistic but sheer doggedness got Victoria Maple Leafs two points at Memorial Arena last night as they outlasted Seattle Totems, 4-2, to start a new pursuit of the third rung on the Western Hockey League ladder.

With both clubs showing their strain imposed by playing their fourth game in five nights, action was disjointed but the numerous errors of omission and commission made for many exciting moments, and the Leafs made it worth while with a rousing finish. Just when it seemed their cause might be lost.

Without defenceman Bill Shvez and Ed Mazur, nursing back and knee hurts, respectively, but luckily finding the Totems as weary as they were, the Leafs bumbled along for close to 50 minutes. But they never quit trying, and tenacity was to have its own reward.

After a 1-1 first period, in which the Leafs scored on a power play and the Totems pulled even while playing short-handed, the clubs played a scoreless second period in a five-place San Francisco Seals.

It had been a long haul. With Larry Keenan and goalkeeper Al Millar playing steady hockey and their teammates for the most part good sports and unthinking or, more likely, unable, in other shifts, the Leafs had been only able to match the Totems' hit-and-miss hockey until they found that last spark.

STUMBLING BLOCK

Between them, the two clubs managed to fire 85 shots on target but most of the exciting moments came on plays which missed. Gray, a big rookie, was a bit of a stumbling block. Although many of his 44 stops were not too difficult, he made more than a few that were good and only on Lamoureux's winning shot was he caught napping.

At the other end, Millar did his share, too, as he got in front of 35 of the 37 pucks directed at his domain.

It wasn't until the fifth of the six first-period penalties that either club could do anything with the odd man. Lou Jankowski making good with a rebound as Larry Zeidel sat out a dubious penalty.

HARD SHOT

Guyie Fielder, who proved he can shoot, squared matters while acting as a penalty-killer three minutes later, beating Millar with a hard shot which found a small opening on the short side.

That was to set up the rather good finish, and it was left to Jankowski to get the clincher into an open net 30 seconds from time.

It was the 26th goal of the season for the veteran left-winger, giving him a chance to defend the goal-scoring honors he won last season with 41 scoring shots. More significant to the Totems, it was the 13th time this season he had put the puck in their nets.

Pros

Killing Hockey

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL (UPI) — Father David Bauer, the clergyman coach of Canada's 1964 Olympic hockey team, says Canada's national game is in an "extremely unhealthy situation" and pins most of the blame on the National Hockey League.

"We have lost sight of the fact that we must distinguish between the objectives of professional hockey and amateur hockey," he told the national convention of the Canadian Sporting Association yesterday.

THEY'RE AWARE

However, he pointed out there is little doubt the "pros dominate the game from the cradle to the grave" and not everything they produce is worthwhile to the youth of Canada.

"In professional hockey the objective is to provide entertainment and operate a successful business," he said. "Making money is certainly a valid objective."

LACK SECURITY

In contrast, he said, the main aim of the amateurs should be the development of a well-rounded character and personality. The kids today lack psychological security. Their schoolwork suffers drastically, but sports is one means of providing the security they need.

However, he emphasized that the influence of the pros obscures and suppresses the amateur objectives.

IT'S DETERMINAL

"Anything that is taking our boys away from all the very great opportunities we have today in education is detrimental."

Father Bauer charged the pros with promoting the game of hockey "without emphasizing the highest principles of the sport."

Undue violence in front of a television audience of millions was one of his chief criticisms.

Father Bauer admitted the game of hockey could use other changes.

"There is no doubt in my mind that it is the worst coached sport in the world," he said. "The Russians have only been playing the game a few years but already they know more about coaching the game, more about the fundamentals than we do, and I mean the NHL too."

Three Rinks Tied In School Spiel

FREDERICTON (CP) — New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario were bunched atop the standings of the Canadian schoolboy championship competition after completion of the second day of play in the five-day bonspiel.

Both Tony Richardson's rink from Moncton and Stuart Campbell's Bridgewater, N.S., foursome had clean sweeps of the three rounds curbed Tuesday.

Nova Scotia picked up a crucial fifth-round victory Tuesday night by toppling previously undefeated Saskatchewan, skipped by Dan Fink of Regina, 6-3 in a match that was only decided when Fink's last stone failed to stay in the house for the required two points that would have sent the game into an extra end.

Paul Savage's Ontario rink from Don Mills in suburban Toronto managed to squeeze past Northern Ontario under skip Wayne Steski of North Bay by piling up three counters in the final end for a 7-5 victory, while in an adjacent lane New Brunswick's Richardson Jod rink to an easy 9-4 decision over Quebec.

GET THIRD WIN

Alberta moved into fourth place behind the three leaders—all with 4-1 records—by posting a 7-5 decision over British Columbia. Doug Dobry's quartet from the tiny town of Viking, Alta., picked up its third win against one setback.

In the third round Tuesday, New Brunswick defeated British Columbia 10-5, Manitoba downed Prince Edward Island 12-3, Newfoundland was swamped 12-3 by Ontario, Alberta defeated Northern Ontario 8-6, and Nova Scotia took a 7-5 decision from Quebec.

Northern Ontario edged British Columbia 9-8 in the fourth round played in the afternoon, Quebec upset Newfoundland 10-9. Nova Scotia humiliated Prince Edward Island 11-4, Saskatchewan defeated Manitoba 8-7, and New Brunswick picked up two points in the last end to brush past Ontario in a crucial contest. It was the Ontario rink's first loss.

However, he pointed out there is little doubt the "pros dominate the game from the cradle to the grave" and not everything they produce is worthwhile to the youth of Canada.

"In professional hockey the objective is to provide entertainment and operate a successful business," he said. "Making money is certainly a valid objective."

Commissioner Given Power

NFL Acts on Premature Signings

PALM DESERT, Calif. (UPI) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle, riding high and mighty in the National Football League saddle, put club owners on the straight and narrow path today in their signing of college players to cancel all the team's draft choices if proven guilty of premature signings.

The owners, alarmed over the premature signing of several grid stars last fall while the boys still were playing college football, gave Rozelle blanketed power to cancel all the team's draft choices if proven guilty of premature signings.

"I don't have to confer with anyone if there is an infraction of the rules," said Rozelle. "I will mete out the punishment."

It possibly is the most power ever given an NFL commissioner—probably the most held by any sports czar since the days of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis in professional baseball.

At least 25 players were believed to be under contract to either the American Football League or the National last year while still playing college ball. The National Collegiate Athletic Association protested mighty.

The NFL's answer came with the amendment to the bylaws yesterday.

"No player may be signed to a contract or any other document . . . until completion of all football games, including post-season bowl games in which the team of the school of such player is to participate," read the amendment.

If a club violates this section it shall be subject to a disciplinary action by the commission . . . such punishment shall provide for the loss of selection choices of the offending club in the next or succeeding selection meetings, up to and including an entire selection list."

Rozelle said he doubted that he'd ever have to apply the penalty.

In other actions, the owners discussed their TV problems with Columbia Broadcasting System; revealed that the National Football League attendance for 1964 set an all-time record of 4,565,049 paid; and that Cleveland set an all-time record for home attendance with 519,334 for seven games.

The attendance for 1964 was an increase of 39,406 over 1963.

NHL Issues Statement

Governors Reject Charges by Refs

MONTREAL (CP)—The six governors of the National Hockey League Tuesday night rejected charges made against referee-in-chief Carl Voss as "entirely unfounded" and said an alleged attempt to "manipulate" the outcome of a game had been fully investigated by the league one year ago.

The statement, issued by board chairman J. D. Norris with the unanimous approval of the governors, was in reply to a press conference held last Friday by former NHL referee Eddie Powers and three other onetime NHL officials.

They presented evidence—but few concrete facts—of manipulation of games, in particular a March 22, 1962, game at Boston with the New York Rangers.

The statement said:

"We are satisfied that the charge against Mr. Voss is entirely unfounded and that it is the product of the malicious distortion of a routine caution given by the referee-in-chief in the course of his duties to the referee in charge of an important game."

WORST GAME

Dalton McArthur, a former NHL referee fired in 1963 and the one assigned to the March 22 game, told reporters he called "the worst game of my career" when instructed by Mr. Voss before the game to call all "good" penalties against New York.

New York won the game 4-3 and assured itself of the last play-off spot that year.

League President Clarence Campbell announced several weeks ago he has accepted the resignation of Voss, effective at the end of the current season.

The Affiliated's stand will also be bolstered by the 20,000-member B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs and the B.C. Council of Outdoor Clubs, which represents 15 outdoor groups.

Members fear that a bill will be presented to the legislature at this session to authorize establishment of townsites in Class A parks. They suspect the bill will be brought down this week, maybe today.

They do not know if the townsites permissive legislation will be included in a whole new parks act, or as a separate bill.

Fish and game members are already disturbed at prospects of a new parks act being enacted at the current legislative session, because they have been under the distinct impression that Recreation Minister Kiernan had promised to seek their help and advice in framing a new parks act. So far, he hasn't.

Vancouver Island Affiliated president Bob Pedersen says recreationists will visit the legislature to make their stand known to all MLAs just as soon as they know what they are up against . . . when a bill is introduced in the legislature.

They still hope that no townsites will be authorized within Strathcona Park, but in view of Recreation Minister Kiernan's remarks in the legislature the fear is worst.

Certainly Western Mines has applied for permission for a residential development within the Clam A Park, with necessary services such as a store, service station, school and a beer parlor to be included.

That company has already turned down one site that was suggested within the park and is seeking another pleasant forested area closer to the mine for its housing development.

Fish and game members have already started a campaign of personal protest letters to Premier Bennett and Mr. Kiernan.

They note that in May 1964 when Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell first proposed a road along Buttle Lake to the Western Mines operation he said that instead of allowing Western Mines to develop a community near its operations he wants to see mining crews travel daily to the mine from Campbell River.

At that time Mr. Campbell said he was alarmed that lack of road access would force "large scale development of an isolated community within the boundaries of the park." It would be tragic, he said, if the Western Mines development resulted in the misuse of Buttle Lake.

Recreation Minister Kiernan, over the loud protests of the recreationists he represents, granted the company permission to build the 22-mile Buttle Lake road last June.

He said then that the road would preclude the necessity of using Buttle Lake for barging and reduce the size of the on-site population at the mine.

Now Western Mines wants both the road and an on-site residential area.

Recreationists fear that a road and a townsites would encourage more development within Strathcona Park. They point out there are now 260 mining claims in Strathcona Park, among the latest filed as recently as May 1964.

In the summer many prospectors swarm over the mountains of Strathcona Park and if they find minerals they will want to mine them.

That 22-mile-long road could become the jumping-off point for numerous other Strathcona Park mining developments.

If one mining company gets a townsites, then why not another mining company?

Goodbye wilderness Strathcona Park.

In a letter to Kiernan the Vancouver Island Affiliated argues that "the townsites would be a direct contradiction to the findings of park planners and managers, not only on the North American continent, but throughout the world."

"Modern transportation precludes the necessity to create a townsites adjacent to a mining operation. Twenty-five to 40 miles is not considered unreasonable by present-day commuters. Logging companies operating in the areas surrounding Strathcona Park are presently commuting much greater distances," says the letter to Kiernan.

One doesn't have to look further than the Victoria area to find such commuters. Miners at the Jordan River mine travelled daily from Victoria, and the huffy, winding Sooke Road couldn't be much better than a new River Lake mine road. Loggers who work in the Sooke-Jordan River area now commute daily from Langford-Colwood area.

More Europeans Enter Canada Rally

MONTREAL (UPI)—European drivers, aiming to break a four-year North American monopoly, have increased their entries for this year's "Shell 4,000" car rally, says organizer Jim Gunn.

This year's cross-country competition from Montreal to Vancouver will run April 24-30.

"There is every indication from manufacturers and motor clubs across Canada that there will be an unusually strong representation of European-made cars in this year's rally," Gunn said.

Gunn estimates that European-built cars will account for two-thirds of the expected 75 entries by the time of the Feb. 28 registration deadline.

Studebakers won the first two Shell 4,000 events, a Chevy II won the third, and a Canadian-built, Swedish-designed Volvo, driven and navigated by Klaus

Goal Teams In Struggle For Vezina

Six goalkeepers are still very much in the battle for the Vezina Trophy, awarded each season to the goal keeper who has played for the National Hockey League club which has permitted the fewest goals.

Toronto Maple Leafs currently rate as the stillest club, but only by a fraction, with their 2.36 goals-against average.

Johnny Bower has played 28 of their games and Terry Sawchuk, 25 and it is conceivable that, barring injury, that coach Punch Imlach could see that his veterans share the honor by giving them each 35 games.

BY HIMSELF

If Detroit Red Wings, right up there at 2.49, should permit the fewest goals, rookie Roger Crozier has it to himself, having played all but a half game out of the Wings' 51.

Also in the running is Montreal's Charlie Hodge, who has a 2.68 average for the 38 games he has played. However, Gump Worsley, with 2.43 for 14 games, has cut the team average to 6.2.

TWO-MAN RACE

In the individual scoring race, it's strictly a two-man struggle between teammates Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita of Chicago. Hull, just back after missing four games because of injury, leads by 67 points to 65.

Hull leads in goals with 38 and Mikita in assists with 46. Mikita also leads in penalties with 138 minutes, barely holding off veteran Ted Lindsay, who has 129 minutes.

Lower Court Shortcomings Under Attack

A lawyer told the B.C. legislature Tuesday there are "many shortcomings" in B.C.'s lower courts system.

Harry McKay (L-Fernie) said a Magistrates Act passed a few years ago, which provided legally-trained magistrates for all indictable offences, has "worked out well."

But "far too many people" were being arrested where they might simply be served with a summons and some police officers didn't seem to understand "that a person is not a criminal just because he has been arrested."

"We still have the situation of the police officer conducting an investigation, making an arrest, and then conducting the prosecution," he said. "This puts the police officer in an impossible situation."

Rae Eddie (NDP—New Westminster) called on the government to introduce a labor code which would guarantee the right to organize into free trade unions, the right to bargain collectively and the right to strike.

Today's Speakers

When the legislature sits at 2 p.m. today the first speaker will be Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell. He will be followed by Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook); Arvid Lundell (BC—Revelstoke); Alex Mathew (BC—Vancouver Centre), and Ernie LeCours (SC—Delta).

Gordon Ballantyne

City Florist Dies Suddenly at 62

Funeral services will be held in McCall's Chapel at 3 p.m. Friday for Victoria florist Gordon Ballantyne who died suddenly at his home Tuesday.

Mr. Ballantyne, who was 62, handled a florist business in Victoria for 44 years. His first venture, with brothers Allan and Clyde, was on Quadra Street between 1921 and 1935.

Then he and Clyde started their own business under the name of Ballantyne Bros. Ltd. 900 Douglas Street.

SERVED IN ARMY

Mr. Ballantyne served with the army between 1942 and 1946. Although he was semi-retired during the past two years, his brother Clyde, 57, still runs the shop.

He was an active member of the Victoria Rotary Club, and a member of the Capital City Commercial Club. He was a Mason in Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1.

He is survived by his widow, Winifred, at 2275 Dunlevy; two brothers, Clyde and Allan; a sister, Mrs. Hazel Andrews; two nephews and a niece.

"Then I realized nearly all of it is sub judice these days," he said.

Rain Brings Rash of Accidents and Centennial Square, Mr. Taxpayer will be able to look east down Pandora Street along an avenue of amber-colored trees.

This will be the result if city council accepts the recommendation of its public works committee.

City Engineer James Garnet said Tuesday it would cost about $2,000 to keep the city hall lights burning the year round.

Saanich ratepayers will have the opportunity Thursday to voice opinion on two of the most controversial issues facing the municipality — mini-metro and a Saanich centennial project.

The occasion will be the annual meeting of the Saanich Voters Association at 8 p.m. at the Lutheran Church Hall, Cedar Hill Road and Cedar Hill Cross Road.

The 1967 Canadian centennial celebrations will begin in Victoria when the Confederation train arrives Jan. 9 for a seven-day stop at the Point Ellice siding, provincial centennial chief L. J. Wallace said Tuesday.

He said the train, an imaginatively designed mobile exhibit, will display Canadians from prehistoric times to the present.

After leaving Victoria, the train will travel to Nanaimo for a three-day stop before hitting nine other B.C. centres.

The train will remain in B.C. for 44 days before finishing its 82-city tour of Canada.

Gaglardi Announces:

'65 Four-Lane Job On Pat Bay Highway

This One's Alive!

There's really someone inside, quick peek convinces giggly fourth grader Kerry Dumond of 216 Kings Road. It was AB F. C. Salter, who made face like deepest monster to delight little Kerry, one of 40 North Ward pupils who toured Pacific Command's RCN Diving Unit in Colwood. (National Defence)

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Reconstruction of the Patricia Bay Highway as a four-lane traffic artery will proceed this year, Highways Minister Gaglardi announced Tuesday.

He said the project will cost about $2,000,000 and will be largely done by day labor.

The minister said within five years of completion of the four-lane route there will be need for a divided four-lane arterial route costing many millions of dollars.

This Patricia Bay freeway will use a different route as it traverses the peninsula from urban Saanich to the Swartz Bay ferry terminal.

In his budget speech Mr. Gaglardi earlier criticized unnamed engineers who he says have been spouting off about conditions existing on the highway.

This criticism is unjustified, he said, because those responsible knew the delays were caused by a decision to await results of the metro traffic study.

The metro traffic study was jointly commissioned by the government and Greater Victoria municipalities.

It is expected, when released shortly, to throw new light on the needs for the Patricia Bay highway at the point where it now enters the city centre.

The government's immediate plans to widen the present highway will make it four lanes instead of the present two for much of its 20-mile length.

Bids for Riding

Tighter Land Use Urged by Bruch

Esquimalt MLA H. J. Bruch has called on the government to provide tighter land-use regulations, more road construction and further pollution studies in his mostly-rural riding.

Speaking in the budget debate Tuesday night, Mr. Bruch said the old Island Highway should be reconstructed. "Most certainly the stretch to Colwood Corners, and on down to Sooke."

MANY BENEFIT

The government backbencher maintained improvement of the road would benefit Greater Victoria residents and would prove attractive to tourists.

Mr. Bruch also said tighter regulations are needed to control intensive land uses because the unorganized territory is becoming more urban than rural with increasing population growth.

The Esquimalt member praised the government for the recent pollution study of algae in Langford Lake but urged that more sewage studies be made.

"It seems to me that the whole district gains by the presence of the university, and the whole district should help pay the cost of upkeep," said Coun. Douglas Crosby told the students.

ROAD BUDGET

Similarly, said the Saanich legislator, the entire Saanich road budget for years can be swallowed up in taking care of the needs of the university.

Grants from other municipalities which benefit from the university is the only answer, said Coun. Crosby.

Professor E. S. Elfat said it is not wholly a one-sided proposition.

ENTER, OBSERVE

Many looked blankly at lab signs like "Bioclimatology and Entomology" or "Ecology and Silvics", glanced in—then moved through the main building's three levels.

WILL BENEFIT

The presence of the university has a rejuvenating effect, he said. It has brought 300 new people into the area and the faculty members, most of whom live in Saanich and Oak Bay, have bought $20,000 to $30,000 homes—homes which, in many cases, had been allowed to run down.

TRADE A MOUNTAIN

for the Empress!

GOVERNMENT

Tuesday night proposed the government trade "the backbone of a mountain" for the Empress Hotel.

GOVERNMENT

expressed concern over reports that something must be done within five years or the stately hotel will be turned into a museum.

GOVERNMENT

is a big business, he said, and can not fail to have an uplifting as well as economically stimulating effect on the whole district.

Saanich May Save Safety Lectures

Saanich police commission is considering the hiring of more personnel and has not decided to reduce or withdraw its school safety lecture program. Reeve Hugh Curtis said Tuesday.

A Saanich police officer earlier expressed fear that the popular school safety program might be cancelled unless more personnel is available for routine police duties.

"It would be very sad if we had to withdraw this outstanding service," said the reeve.

PROGRESSIVE PROGRAM

"It's been a forward looking program which is now being introduced by many other police departments across the country."

"The commission is considering the hiring of more personnel for the police force and I certainly hope there will be no reduction of this safety program."

Could Be Used for Offices

Tisdalle Tells Government

Trade a Mountain for Empress!

suggested it could be turned into government offices.

Outside the House, Mr. Tisdalle said the hotel could be traded for some forestry land, adding:

"I'm positive the CPR would be interested. They want to get out of the Empress."

In the House he said something must be done to save the hotel, prompting Dave Barrett (NDP-Dewdney) to quip:

"It's going to be a PGE station."

"Why doesn't the government take it over?" added North Vancouver Liberal J. Gordon Gibson.

Orange Brocade For 'At Home'

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Wide necklines, small collars, bold color combinations and an abundance of small buttons were popular with six Canadian designers who showed their spring-summer collections to the press here Tuesday.

The Association of Canadian Couturiers' fashion preview predicted longer jackets and square-cut lines in suits for spring, and the square-cut look was carried over to casual summer dresses and slacks.

Bias cuts were used for dresser costumes, and several outfitts had double skirts for a tunic effect. The matching coat was often two inches shorter than the dress.

Designer Frances Davies opened the show with a cool blue, black and yellow linen patio dress with squared lines. Front and back panels were stitched down to the ankle-length hemline, and joined by two small side belts at the waist.

Frances Stewart of Ottawa showed a brown linen suit with an over-skirt that remained open on one side, and a house dress of orange brocade that opened from the waist on white pyjamas. For evening, Miss suit.

Stewart offered a bright gold ensemble.

For casual wear, Mario di Nardo, Montreal, showed a sports costume in beige orlon wool and mohair blend. The square-cut slacks and matching square-cut suit jacket were worn with a striped tie-back turban and scarf and high-heeled slingback shoes.

Olivia, of Hamilton, Ont., showed a white cotton hostess coat with Empire bow and pale gold halter-neck overalls. Her pink printed chiffon dress had a rippling skirt and cape sleeves, and a coral suit jacket had a half-moon waistline. Several costumes styled by Olivia had batwing sleeves.

From Rodolphe of Toronto came a printed-linen patio dress in bold colors with buttons down one side and on the large collar. Another full-length dress for summer had a gigantic sunflower, printed orange, brown and green on beige, and a high waist. Sidelatching effected the square or cornered look.

A navy-stripe dress in silk linen by Rodolphe had a yellow collar and yellow pleats. White qui-jure on pale yellow was used for a lacy five-tiered evening printed silk, and "Summer Song," in printed silk gauze. Right is "Pot of Gold," and all are from the Norman Hartnell Spring collection. — (Fednews)

PERSONAL MENTION

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes will attend an Home given by HMCS Malahat in HMCS Naden Wardroom on Saturday.

At Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. R. Sievers and son Des, from Port Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. V. Carscadden, from Langley, B.C., were in Victoria to attend the Watt-Christison wedding at Gorge Presbyterian Church.

Newcomers to Brentwood

Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchison, who have resided for the past 16 years in Campbell River, have recently taken up residence in Brentwood. Mrs. Hutchison (the former Sylvia Boyd) had previously lived in Victoria for 41 years. In Campbell River she was well-known in musical circles.

Re-Union Coffee Party

St. Margaret's School old girls enjoyed a re-union coffee party in the school's common room recently. Those attending were Mrs. D. W. Cobbett, headmistress; Margaret Roberts, president of the Old Girls' Association; Mrs. A. K. Love, Miss S. W. Price, Mrs. Edith Barman, Mrs. Nora Nixon, Mrs. Barbara Steel, Mrs. Felicity Graham, Miss Gretta Jones. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Ann Lightbody from Vancouver and Mrs. Berna Dean Benjettors from Campbell River. School boarders participated in an entertainment and served refreshments.

Candlelight Vows At Cathedral Chapel

Dean Brian Whillan officiated at the recent candlelight ceremony in the Lady Chapel of Christ Church Cathedral that united in marriage Lois Laverty Wood and Sub-Lt. Robert Earl George RCN.

The chapel was decorated with forsythia, white gladioli and pink carnations for the late afternoon ceremony. Soloist Stanley Martin, sang "Panis Angelicus" during the signing of the register.

Parents of the principals are Mrs. G. J. Elwood, 1426 Newport Avenue, Victoria, and Mrs. M. George, North Vancouver, who travelled here for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, wore a street length gown and matching jacket of heavy white French silk. The gown was styled with an A-line skirt and the jacket featured three-quarter-length sleeves. Her headpiece was a white lace crystal necklace. She carried a mantilla and only jewelry was a bouquet of white orchids and hyacinths.

Only attendant, Miss Carol Bloomquist, highlighted her pink silk linen suit with matching shoes and bow headpiece and carried a bouquet of gardenias and white hyacinth bells.

Sub-Lt. Dennis Reiley was best man and guests were ushered to their pews by Sub-Lieutenants John Anderson and Gary Mitchell, the groom's fellow officers.

Mr. Waldo Skillings proposed the toast to the bride at a reception that followed in the Rockland Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Evan S. Jones.

A wedding cake, flanked by candelabra, centred the bride's table. Arrangements of forsythia, white gladioli and daffodils completed the decorations.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs and Seattle, the bride donned a coral-toned dress topped with a black and white velvet coat accented with a velvet collar. A matching velvet "My Fair Lady" hat and black patent accessories completed the ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Buie, 1310 Burleigh Crescent, announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Mr. Barry Frederick Granger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Granger, 778 Victoria Street, Winnipeg. The wedding will take place in St. John's Anglican Church, Feb. 27 at 7:15 p.m. with Canon George Biddle officiating.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: How old does a girl have to be before she can (a) go out on a date; (b) shave her legs; (c) wear heels and nylons; (d) make her own decisions. Thank you.—A BABY FOREVER.

Dear Baby: (a) Limited dating should be permitted after a girl reaches high school—and this means the ninth grade. (b) It depends on what's there. (c) See answer to (a). (d) What decisions? You're welcome.—Ann Landers.

Dear Ann Landers: Jason and I have been married 10 years. We have always wanted a family but for some reason I couldn't get pregnant.

After going to a fertility clinic for two years I finally got the good news. Our baby is due next month.

Everything was grand until last week. Jason told me when my time comes to go to the hospital I should call a taxi and leave the house quietly. He said, "I don't want to know a thing."

At first I thought he was kidding but now I believe he is serious. Last night he said again, "Don't call me until you

I always have had a secret crush on this young man.

Well, Ann, the next day I went to the young man's office and repeated what my friend had said. I told him how pleased I was. He looked at me like I was crazy and finally blurted out, "I didn't say it."

Now I don't know if the fellow denied that warm compliment because he doesn't want me to know he likes me, or if my friend made up the whole thing to perk up my spirits. I'm not very pretty and am dateless most of the time. What do you think?—CONFUSED.

Dear CONFUSED: I think the next time you get a compliment (even second-hand) you should just leave it alone.

It could be that the young man made a nice remark about you and your friend embellished it (as people sometimes do in the retelling). Perhaps her reported version was a more glowing testimonial than he wished to underwrite. From now on, Honey-Bun, remember that a compliment is best treated like perfume. You're supposed to take a whiff—not swallow it.

Now, more than ever, it's TUMS for the TUMMY!

Tourism Big Business

Tourism, B.C.'s third major industry, accounted for $185 million in 1964. Hon. Kenneth Kiernan, minister of recreation and conservation, told members of the Provincial Council of Women Tuesday.

The minister addressed the group at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel during their annual meeting here.

Mr. Kiernan pointed out that tourism is of great benefit to many B.C. industries as well as to the individual.

Many tourists bring their cars to B.C. and that means they buy gas here. The tax on the gas goes to building and up-keep of roads. So it is easy to see that more tourists help to build more roads.

They also have a direct impact on hotels. Tourists bring money to hotel owners enabling them to enlarge and improve facilities. This also benefits the people of the community as well as the tourist.

During the season many individuals are employed in hotels, stores, restaurants and various other places.

Tourism has also another beneficial aspect in that it doesn't take anything in the way of natural resources. The scenery, the lakes, the parks, the swimming, the skiing are all still here after the tourists have gone.

Mr. Kiernan had a few words of advice on keeping the tourist business booming.

Most important is to make the tourist feel welcome by being friendly and hospitable; to be fair and not overcharge for services; to keep cities clean, highways tidy and to be intelligent about one's own area.

The magazine, Beautiful B.C. is proving to be successful in arousing tourist interest in the province, Mr. Kiernan said. At present this magazine has 44,000 subscriptions and at Christmas more than 100,000 copies.

corresponding secretary, spoke of the achievements during the year through presentations to the provincial government.

Sessions continue today.

Mrs. Bertrand Galloway of Vancouver, retiring president, expressed thanks to the executive.

She also spoke on problems now being brought into the open.

She mentioned narcotics, divorce and birth control.

The Provincial Council has studied these problems and Mrs. Galloway said she approved better birth control information and broader divorce laws.

153 WANTED TO BUY HOUSES

DO YOU REMEMBER THE couple who wanted a little home with a large yard or when I moved and wanted a place to live in Fairfield? Well, I received a reply from a home owner who said that he had a house to sell, however there was a water problem, and that he had banded up the side of the house. He wanted $1,000 for a new little home, $300, with no steps, around $10,000, with a garage, a large yard, a kitchen and living room. If you have such a property and are thinking ever, Harry Foster Limited, 23101 or 23091, Box 23091, Victoria, B.C.

$16,000 CASH

Required couple require a room manager with basement. They'd pay $1000 per month, a cleaning man, $500 per month. Also need a 3 or 4 bedroom house, $10,000 to $12,000. Losses Small, Persistent TORONTO (CP) — Industrialists had losses for the second time this week in moderate stock exchange trading Tuesday.

Losses were fractional and persisted throughout the session.

EDMONTON (CP) — Mines provided an acre of view property overlooking the Bow River, offering lots in all directions, not a subdivision lot $8,511. $3,000.

SAVANNAH (CP) — Mines provided the most activity on the Vancouver stock exchange today and prices were slightly firmer. Industrialists were quiet but remained steady.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, PRHS

In my last column we initiated a series on garden tools, commencing with digging implements and I outlined my arguments in favor of the long-handled, pointed-nose shovel and against the back-breaking short-handled spade. Today I think we might take a critical look at rakes.

Generally speaking, rakes are needed for two different jobs in the garden: for cleaning the lawn, and for leveling and creating a good tilth on cultivated ground prior to sowing seeds or setting out plants.

And make no mistake about it—you need two entirely different kinds of rake for these two jobs: for a leaf-sweeping rake is almost useless for preparing a seed bed, while a conventional iron-toothed rake is exasperating and inefficient when used on the lawn.

The better makes of iron-toothed rake have the shank of the head welded into the socket in which the handle fits, and my favorite is the bow-type, in which the head is supported by the two ends rather than by the middle. The cheaper types have only a metal shank which is driven into a hole in the wooden handle and covered by a metal

after the digging rather than to follow it up immediately, as this gives the surface soil a chance to dry out a little, so the lumps will powder down easily at the touch of the rake. Raking just before rain is bad business, for a finely pulverized surface will puddle and cake when wetted.

The preparation of a good seed bed can seldom be accomplished with one single raking. The first raking is to level off the bed and to remove all sticks, stones and rubbish. Following this, the bed should be consolidated by walking all over it while wearing your biggest and heaviest boots—not stomping it down, but with a shuffling motion that applies the weight of the body to every square inch of bed.

Soft spots are almost sure to show up during this treading, in which case the whole bed is raked again and trodden a second time. Then comes the final raking, after which the seed furrows can be drawn and the seeds sown. The back of an iron-toothed rake can be used for covering the seeds and for tamping down the soil over the sown seed rows.

Raking implements for the lawn will be discussed in my next column.

'Pocket Goliath' Vs. RCMP

OTTAWA—The case of Gilles Gregoire — "Pocket Goliath" Creditlife deputy leader—versus the RCMP was referred by the Commons to the standing committee on privileges and elections.

The diminutive Quebecer spent four hours in jail after being arrested on Parliament Hill by three burly Mounties for refusing to pay $42 in parking and speeding tickets.

The five-foot-five-inch, 128-pound featherweight claimed he was manhandled, shoved, kicked and had his wrist watch broken as three six-foot Mounties pushed him into a car in front of the Peace Tower and whisked him away to Carleton County Jail.

He was released only after the intervention of Justice Minister Guy Favreau.

Mr. Gregoire had refused to pay the fines and summonses because they were not written in French.

On his own question of privilege, Mr. Gregoire said he wanted to propose a motion that the Commissioner of the RCMP, G. B. McLeish, be asked to resign.

The diminutive Quebecer spent four hours in jail after being arrested on Parliament Hill by three burly Mounties for refusing to pay $42 in parking and speeding tickets.

The five-foot-five-inch, 128-pound featherweight claimed he was manhandled, shoved, kicked and had his wrist watch broken as three six-foot Mounties pushed him into a car in front of the Peace Tower and whisked him away to Carleton County Jail.

He was released only after the intervention of Justice Minister Guy Favreau.

Mr. Gregoire had refused to pay the fines and summonses because they were not written in French.

On his own question of privilege, Mr. Gregoire said he wanted to propose a motion that the Commissioner of the RCMP, G. B. McLeish, be asked to resign.

Aldermen Decide Answer Is Maybe

Aldermen are in no hurry to a series of attractions to be held from April 12 to 18.

City Manager Dennis Young suggested that the anteroom in the legislative wing, a large room adjacent to the council chamber, could be used for such a show. Its use would not be incompatible with the list of uses specified for the room by city council.

"I think we should think this over very carefully," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgerton.

Ald. Millard Mooney agreed it was no time for a hasty decision.

A Chamber of Commerce request to put up cross-street banners advertising the flower festival was refused.

Woman, Trio Planned to Blow Up Shrines of Liberty

Washington Monument, Liberty Bell, Statue

Canadian Nabbed in Weird U.S. Plot

NEW YORK (CP)—A white woman from Canada and three American Negroes, described by police as pro-Castro and pro-Chinese fanatics, were arrested here Tuesday in a weird plot to blow up the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

They were identified as

Robert S. Collier, 28, Walter A. Bowe, 32, and Khalil S. Sayyed, 22.

City Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy said the idea behind the fantastic scheme to destroy the historical U.S. monuments was symbolic.

"We know they have made contact in other cities," the commissioner added. "We have no idea how many people might be involved."

Police said that in readiness for the adventure, which may have been timed with George Washington's birthday, Feb. 22 in mind, were 22 sticks of dynamite, with detonating caps.

These were seized in a well-laid police trap as they were being transferred from a

Bronx parking lot to an automobile.

Miss Duclos, a tall blonde, had been a television commentator in Montreal and member of a group advocating separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada.

Bank Action Proceeds

Nose Thumb For Ottawa

By Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett thumbed his nose Tuesday at an Ottawa proposal to curb B.C. government investment in the shares of chartered banks.

Federal Move

'Defence Against Invasion'

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government, declaring it intends to protect the exclusive jurisdiction over banking given Parliament by the constitution, has moved to prevent provincial governments from invading this field.

In a step aimed particularly at curbing the present ambitions of British Columbia's Social Credit government, Finance Minister Gordon announced Tuesday legislation will be placed before Parliament to bar any government from owning shares in a Canadian chartered bank.

21 DAYS AFTER

His announcement to the Commons came 21 days after Premier W. A. C. Bennett of B.C. introduced in the legislature a proposed amendment to the Revenue Act to allow the provincial government to buy up to 10 per cent of the issued share capital of any chartered bank.

Mr. Gordon ran into immediate criticism from spokesmen for the New Democratic, Social Credit and Creditiste parties.

The legislation forecast by

Caller Warns Dupuis: Police Are After You

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal MP Yvon Dupuis has been warned that the Quebec provincial police are about to arrest him, but he did not fear prosecution because he was innocent of any wrongdoing. (See also page 3.)

Mr. Dupuis made the statement outside the Commons after saying in the House that the RCMP is investigating allegations that he received a $10,000 payoff in 1961 to help obtain a provincial franchise for a harness racetrack at St. Luc.

He said he had received personal assurances from Finance Minister Walter Gordon, who made the Ottawa announcement, that "he was not opposed to our bill."

Earlier, Premier Bennett told reporters before entering the legislature at 2 p.m. he had no statement, but added: "B.C. were now on a collision course over the bill."

Leafs Defeat Seattle On Sheer Doggedness

Victoria Starts After Third Place Again

By JIM TANG

It wasn't artistic but sheer doggedness got Victoria Maple Leafs two points at Memorial Arena last night as they outlasted Seattle Totems, 4-2, to start a new pursuit of the third rung on the Western Hockey League ladder.

With both clubs showing the strain imposed by playing their fourth game in five nights, action was disjointed but the numerous errors of omissions and commission made for many exciting moments. And the Leafs made it worth while with a rousing finish just when it seemed their cause might be lost.

Without defenceman Bill Shvetz and Ed Mazur, nursing back and knee hurts, respectively, but luckily finding the Totems as weary as they were, the Leafs bumbled along for close to 50 minutes. But they never quit trying, and tenacity was to have its own reward.

After a 1-1 first period, in which the Leafs scored on a power play and the Totems pulled even while playing short-handed, the club played a scoreless second period in a manner which made it probable that the club which scored next would win.

Totems got the third goal, and coming as it did after two glaring defensive errors, it could have been the sign for a leg-wear club to call it a night. Instead it provided the goad the Leafs needed.

They came on steadily to force the play and finally pulled even as Fred Hucat, getting the puck at the left point after Milan Maricic and Danny Beslje had a lot of corner spading, rifled a shot past Bob Gray.

And it was the same kind of digging which set up the winner. This time, tenacious Steve Witluk kept battling two Totems until he got the put out from the right corner to Dick Lamoureux.

The valuable utilityman, taking Mazur's place, caught Gray with surprise with a quick backhander and the Leafs found themselves five points ahead of

Bauer:

Pros Killing Hockey

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL (UPI)—Father David Bauer, the clergymen coach of Canada's 1964 Olympic hockey team, says Canada's national game is in an "extremely unhealthy situation" and pins most of the blame on the National Hockey League.

"We have lost sight of the fact that we must distinguish between the objectives of professional hockey and amateur hockey," he told the national convention of the Canadian Sporting Association yesterday.

They're aware

However, he pointed out there is little doubt the "pros dominate the game from the cradle to the grave" and not everything they produce is worthwhile to the youth of Canada.

In professional hockey the objective is to provide entertainment and operate a successful business," he said. "Making money is certainly a valid objective."

LACK SECURITY

In contrast, he said, the main aim of the amateurs should be the development of a well-rounded character and personality. The kids today lack psychological security. Their schoolwork suffers drastically, but sports is one means of providing the security they need.

However, he emphasized that the influence of the pros obscures and suppresses the amateur objectives.

"Because of pro hockey," he went on, "we make it impossible to produce well-rounded individuals."

IT'S DENTRAL

"Anything that is taking our boys away from all the very, very great opportunities we have today in education is detrimental."

Father Bauer charged the pros with promoting the game of hockey "without emphasizing the highest principles of the sport."

Undue violence in front of a television audience of millions was one of his chief criticisms.

Father Bauer admitted the game of hockey could use other changes.

"There is no doubt in my mind that it is the world's greatest sport in the world," he said. "The Russians have only been playing the game a few years but already they know more about coaching the game, more about the fundamentals than we do, and I mean the NHL too."

Three Rinks Tied In School Spiel

FREDERICTON (CP)—New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario were launched atop the standings of the Canadian schools' championship competition after completion of the second day of play in the five-day bonspiel.

Both Tony Richardson's rink from Moncton and Stuart Campbell's Bridgewater, N.S., foursome had clean sweeps Tuesday.

Nova Scotia picked up a crucial fifth-round victory Tuesday night by toppling previously undefeated Saskatchewan, skipped

by Dan Fink of Regina, 6-5 in a match that was only decided when Fink's last stone failed to stay in the house for the required two points that would have sent the game into an extra end.

Paul Savage's Ontario rink from Don Mills in suburban Toronto managed to squeeze past Northern Ontario under skip Wayne Steksi of North Bay by pulling up three counters in the final end for a 7-6 victory, while in an adjacent lane New Brunswick's Richardson led his rink to an easy 9-4 decision over Quebec.

GET THIRD WIN

Alberta moved into fourth place behind the three leaders—all with 4-1 records—by posting a 7-5 decision over British Columbia. Doug Dobry's quartet from the tiny town of Vilk-

ing, Alta., picked up its third win against one setback.

In the third round Tuesday, New Brunswick defeated British Columbia 10-5, Manitoba downed Prince Edward Island 12-3, Newfoundland was swamped 12-3 by Ontario, Alberta defeated Northern Ontario 8-6, and Nova Scotia took a 7-5 decision from Quebec.

Northern Ontario's fourth round, played in the afternoon, Quebec upset Newfoundland 10-9, Nova Scotia defeated Prince Edward Island 11-4, Saskatchewan defeated Manitoba 9-7, and New Brunswick picked up two points in the last end to bring its total to 11. It was the Ontario rink's first loss.

Huge Play Centre Favored

NANAIMO — The Wellington centennial committee voted 22-1 Monday night to support the $10,000,000 recreation centre proposed as a 1967 district centennial project. Nanaimo centennial committee member J. B. Litch, who suggested the centre, said it would need approval by all voters in the school districts and might raise taxes $8 or $9 a year.

DUNCAN — Cowichan Valley dairy farmer Harry Standen has been elected president of the Cowichan Jersey Cattle Club. Others on the executive are Bruce Pickering, vice-president;

Parksville Veteran Honored

PARKSVILLE — Fellow members of the Mt. Arrowsmith Legion branch have honored James Kingaley, with a life membership.

Mr. Kingaley is a charter member of the branch, formed in 1926, and before that was a member of the Great War Veterans' Association. He has held every branch office except president, has been service officer for more than 30 years and holds the rarely-awarded Legion Medal of Merit.

Trustees Waive Bus Rule

DUNCAN — The Cowichan district school board decided Monday night to waive one of its policies following a request for bus transportation this weekend. Trustee Gerald Patterson said 20 Cowichan Senior Secondary students will compete in a basketball tournament in Courtenay but, since they will leave Friday afternoon, the board would have to rent a bus.

AFTER MIDNIGHT — A school bus could bring them home Saturday, but not until after midnight, and policy is to have all buses in the garage by midnight to avoid overtime. The transportation committee was asked to find out if renting or overtime would be cheaper. If it's the latter, the policy will be waived.

SUNDAYS OFF — The board decided to accept a Jehovah's Witnesses request for use of Cowichan Senior Secondary on a Sunday for a Bible meeting of 800 to 1,000 people. Board policy gives the staff Sundays off.

Trustees accepted a five-percent pay hike for 60 TWA-member employees plus $19 a month for 26 maintenance men. Bids for two new buses were $32,060 from Robson Truck and Equipment Ltd. of Duncan and $28,301 from Wilcox Truck and Equipment Ltd. of Vancouver.

COURTENAY — The $207,420 request from the Comox Valley Association for Mentally Handicapped Children for consideration in the 1965 budget was referred to the finance committee. The association meets $9,000 budget through school board grants and private donations.

They explained the call for tenders specified a completion time so the city could apply for winter works grants. Bids ranged from 120 to 400 miles and Calgary Concrete's 120 days means the firm will have to lay 1,500 feet of sidewalk daily.

11-Hour Adventure in Caution

Bus Pioneers Way to Port Hardy

By DON HUNTING

CAMPBELL RIVER—The inaugural run of Vancouver Island Coach Lines' tri-weekly service to Port Hardy from Victoria pulled into Port Hardy at about 3 a.m. Monday—after quite an adventure.

We boarded the bus here for a trip expected to take 7½ hours. It took 11 hours instead, but there were good reasons.

Port Hardy, the new end of the road, is 365 road miles from Victoria. Its new service will leave Campbell River Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, and return Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Drivers Along

Official driver over the chain of private logging roads, opened to limited public use last May 27, was Herb Grey, but his 35 passengers included six bus drivers going along for familiarization.

Mr. Grey had only driven as far as Nimpkish camp before, but Warner Poncratz, Coach Lines' terminal manager in Nanaimo, had been over the whole road once.

He and chief dispatcher Bill Wilson of Victoria went along to establish agents and terminals on the run.

Rules Not Followed

Man's Death
'Avoidable'

NANAIMO — The death of a 32-year-old sewer trench worker "would have been avoided," a coroner's jury ruled Tuesday night, "had preventive measures as so stated by Workmen's Compensation Board regulations . . . been taken and adhered to" before the accident.

Leo Morgan of Departure Bay Road, father of two children, was suffocated Feb. 9 when a section of trench 15 feet long and seven feet deep caved in at a sewer project in the upper Departure Bay area.

The coroner's jury referred to Sections 400 and 401 of the compensation regulations. These state in part that trenches deeper than four feet on such projects must be shored by board at least two inches thick.

NOT SHORED

The Departure Bay trench was not shored.

The jury "strongly recommended" a competent carpenter be assigned to shoring duties on all excavating work "of any nature when shoring is necessary according to the compensation rules."

Percy Simpson, a resident for the G. W. Ledingham Construction Co., and Pat Ferguson, foreman on the job, spoke at the inquest.

Mr. Simpson said he felt the collapse was due to the presence of a drainage ditch three feet away from the trench.

The two men also said they felt there was no need for shoring of the trench as the pipelayers were working in handpans.

Mr. Morgan was a pipelayer's helper.

The trench was located between Highland Boulevard and Marlborough Drive and the work was being undertaken as part of a $445,000 sewerage project approved by voters last year.

ACCIDENTAL

Meanwhile, in Chemainus, another coroner's jury ruled Richard G. Cook, Jr., 15, met accidental death in a Thetis Island traffic accident Jan. 31.

He was killed instantly while a passenger in an old-model pickup truck, driven by B. A. R. Nixon, 17, also of Thetis Island.

The accident occurred on the North Cove Road and the jury recommended the posting of speed limit signs on the road.

Flag Case Plea

COURTENAY—A plea of not guilty to charges of stealing two Red Ensigns was entered by Magistrate John Ryland in magistrate's court Tuesday on behalf of a well-known former soldier.

Archibald Butler Constable of Comox, a veteran of both world wars, appeared on charges of stealing Red Ensigns from the Courtenay and Comox post offices Monday morning, shortly before they were to be replaced by new Canadian flags.

STEAL FROM MY LAND?

Asked for his plea, Constable asked the magistrate, "I'm a Canadian, sir, can I steal from my own land?"

Asked a second time, he replied, "I did not steal it, sir."

The magistrate then entered the not-guilty plea and remanded the case to Friday.

Following the court appearance, Constable said he did not wish to make any further comment.

He served overseas in the First World War with the Newfoundland regiment and in the Second World War with the Canadian Scottish as a major.

He later returned here to serve at the combined operations camp at Sandwick.

The accused is also an active Legion member.

Just Midnight

It was just at midnight.

The last 25 miles into Port Hardy, with a brief stop at the airport, seemed the longest of the whole trip.

Drivers and passengers finally rolled into beds at the newly expanded Seagate Hotel at Port Hardy after 1 a.m.

Next link will be to Hobart and the RCAF radar station near Cape Scott, through forest lands and via roads already being built by logging companies.

The accused is also an active Legion member.

it there as long as possible despite official change to new flag. It will come down if and when Pacific Command orders change.—(Agnes Flett)

Delays for this work, poor road conditions due to heavy snow, and drivers steering cautiously over unfamiliar roads all contributed to the 3½-hour lag.

Some Highlights

Here are some of the highlights, from the start:

As the bus passed through the Elk River Timber Co. checkgate, the "pioneers" realized Upper Campbell Lake is very low. B.C. Hydro has obviously prepared to cushion an extremely heavy runoff expected from the deep winter snow.

The snow deepened as the bus climbed the Elk River valley, passing over the Tahsis Co. road to Gold River junction.

Here, Coach Lines' officials climbed over snowbanks to nail a large plywood sign to a tree.

Truck Warning

It gives the days and times passenger buses will be going through, as a warning to logging trucks.

The route goes on through the heavily timbered area up the Gold River, past Muchalat Lake and across the Oceanshaw.

The snow became steadily deeper until the road became a single-lane, double-rut trench between the giant evergreens.

Just as dusk came the first vehicle approached from the Nimpkish Valley.

Had to Back Up

Several attempts to have the bus pack down snow on both sides of the road failed and the light delivery truck had to back up several miles to the first turnout.

Everyone piled out at the Vernon logging camp at 7 p.m. for hot coffee, sandwiches and hamburgers in the camp canteen.

It was 8 p.m., dark and raining when the bus stopped at Woss camp, yet a number of enthusiastic townpeople were there to meet the bus.

High Trestle

Outside Woss camp, the bus crossed a high railway trestle and went on down to the Nimpkish Lake headquarters camp of Canadian Forest Products.

Seven passengers had left at Nimpkish, but a pretty blonde schoolteacher returning to Port McNeill after a weekend with friends was more than consolation.

The snow had almost disappeared in this northern half of the valley.

The bus went around by Bonanza Lake and into Crown Zellerbach holdings to Kokish.

Switchbacks

Next, the bus had to back up to get around some sharp switchbacks before coming out at Beaver Cove, where seven more weary passengers left.

Canadian Nabbed in Weird U.S. Plot

NEW YORK (CP) — A white woman from Canada and three American Negroes, described by police as pro-Castro and pro-Chinese fanatics, were arrested here Tuesday in a weird plot to blow up the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

They were identified as

Michelle Duclos, 28, of Mon-

real, and Robert S. Collier, 28; Walter A. Bowe, 32, and Khaleel S. Sayeed, 22.

City Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy said the idea behind the fantastic scheme to destroy the historical U.S. monuments was symbolic.

"We know they have made contact in other cities," the commissioner added. "We have no idea how many people might be involved."

Police said that in reading for the adventure, which may have been timed with George Washington's birthday, Feb. 22 in mind, were 22 sticks of dynamite, with detonating caps.

These were seized in a well-laid police trap as they were being transferred from a

Bronx parking lot to an automobile.

Miss Duclos, a tall blonde, had been a television commentator in Montreal and member of a group advocating separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada.

BENNETT DEFIANT ON BANK

By Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett thumbed his nose Tuesday at an Ottawa proposal to curb B.C. government investment in the shares of chartered banks.

He served notice the government intends to proceed with new bank legislation at this session by introducing the bill to amend the Revenue Act for second reading in the House.

The debate was immediately adjourned, after the unexpected move which came at the end of the afternoon sitting, and Premier Bennett later told reporters he made his point.

BENNETT AMAZED

Premier Bennett said outside the House he was amazed to learn the federal government intends to introduce legislation barring provinces from investment in chartered banks.

He said he had received personal assurances from Finance Minister Walter Gordon, who made the Ottawa announcement, that "he was not opposed to our bill."

Earlier, Premier Bennett told reporters before entering the legislature at 2 p.m. he had no statement, but added: "B.C. does not back out. We go ahead."

NOT IN COLLISION

The premier said he could not agree with a suggestion by a reporter that B.C. and Ottawa were now on a collision course over the bank.

"We may disagree with the federal government," said Mr. Bennett. "But at no time do we try to dictate to the federal government."

"This morning they told me: 'Don't take your car because they're watching for you on the main road to Ottawa.'"

Mr. Dupuis said he drove to Ottawa along his usual route.

He declined to identify the persons who warned him about his possible arrest.

"I'm not afraid of being prosecuted. If someone wants to prosecute me, let him prosecute."

WHY CHANGE NOW?

Why should Ottawa change now? He asked.

On budget day, Feb. 5, Premier Bennett said the province would buy shares in every chartered bank in Canada.

Introducing the amendment to the Revenue Act for second reading in the legislature Tuesday, Premier Bennett said:

"In the rapidly-changing financial conditions of the world today, present restrictions do not give the provinces enough diversification of provincial holdings. DIVERGENCE TO DIVERSITY."

"It is desirable to diversify provincial holdings in some investments in addition to federal and provincial government holdings which are limited in yield and maturity."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the federal proposal would affect more than just B.C.

It is the first time in the constitutional history of Canada, he said, that the national government has proposed to circumscribe the power of the provinces to invest funds.

Albania in There Trying for Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Communist China's ally Albania tried to force a showdown Tuesday between the Soviet Union and the United States over Russia's General Assembly voting rights. The Assembly adjourned, putting off an immediate confrontation.

Albanian Ambassador Halim Budo threw the Assembly into a turmoil with an unexpected demand for an immediate vote.

Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey fought back the Albanian move by pushing through an adjournment until Thursday. Budo then demanded that the adjournment itself be put to a vote. But Quaison-Sackey adjourned the body without polling the members.
